

Krystal Johnson

Krystal is passionate about sharing her love of the outdoors. She was raised to love and to respect every part of nature her entire life. She, along with her husband and 7-year-old son own and operate a Christmas tree farm in Fryeburg, Maine. Her experience in caring for children extends from being a busy day to day mom volunteering in the schools and, as a very active aunt of 11 children ages 2 to 12.

Krystal has her Associates degree with a focus on early childhood education, and she truly believes in the many benefits of free play in nature. Krystal has been with Timbernook for a year and has truly enjoyed the magic that happens there. The experience is like no other. She is witness to the many positive effects that go along with free play with her own son and many nieces and nephews.

To watch a child's imagination come alive is a truly wonderful experience. Krystal is also a part-time Hair Stylist and certified massage therapist. She has a great understanding of how the body functions and what is needed to thrive.
